Explanation of the position, including any recommended amendments:

The State Bar of Michigan Animal Law Section supports SB 239, which would prohibit local units of government from enacting rules pertaining to dogs based on "breed, perceived breed, or type." The bill strikes a balance by expressly allowing local units of government to enact rules that "place[] restrictions or impose[] additional requirements on dogs or dog owners." However, by requiring that any restrictions or requirements be breed neutral, this bill ensures fairness and does not allow local government to interfere with residents' ownership interests in specific breeds or types of dogs based on prejudice. Breed-specific legislation should be prohibited because it has been shown to be ineffective in achieving local governments' stated goal of protecting the public, it is expensive to enforce, and it results in dogs that are not problematic being euthanized or rehomed and separated from their human families.
