Explanation of the position, including any recommended amendments:

HB 4118 requires the child placement agency to give preference to the child's relative, if it finds that the relative is willing to care for the child, is fit to do so, and would meet the child's developmental, emotional, and physical needs. If so, the agency must place the child with that relative unless it finds that the placement is not in the child's best interests. There is a sense that child placement agencies often have a bias in favor of their regular foster placements as opposed to relatives. The bill seems has sufficient protections to ensure that children are not placed in unsuitable situations, while giving some deference to relatives. The Family Law Section supports this bill.
